

Cellfood® — a source of beneficial vibrational frequencies

Magnetic Resonance Analyzer test of Cellfood® :

Conducted by Apetie Link Co. Ltd., Japan, under the direction of Mr. Kohei Fukoda

What the test means:

The Magnetic Resonance Analyzer (MRA)— which has been used worldwide in alternative medicine, especially in Japan— is a wave motion test which measures the ability of the human body to resonate at certain frequencies. Test results show which areas of the body are weak and in need of attention. The MRA can also be used to test a natural healing substance, indicating its beneficial frequency relationship toward various body areas and diseases.

The maximum frequency benefit the MRA is able to measure is +20, so a substance could be capable of a +30, +40 or more, even though it can't be shown on the test. The results of the test done on Cellfood® are presented here. Note that 5 disease categories are at +20.
